Good News For The World

Christmas, 1921, gives promise of more nearly approaching to a realization of the song of the angels on the first Christmas morn, "Peace on earth goodwill to men," than any like season in years past thanks to the conference on the limitation of armaments convened at Washington. It is too early as yet to estimate the results of this epoch-making conference, but that it cannot fail to be productive of much good was clearly established at the opening session and subsequent days.

The Great War ended in the "scraping" of the German navy, a big fleet created as an offensive weapon, a threat against all other nations and the peace and freedom of the world. The British and United States navies have been brought into being for defensive purposes, and the former has long been regarded as a world policeman and been responsible, not for precipitating wars, but in preventing them and maintaining order and extending liberty in all parts of the globe. When the German navy struck its colors and was ignominiously scuttled, the Austrian and Turkish fleets met a like fate. And with the destruction of these navies the need for maintaining great defensive fleets by Great Britain, the United States, Japan and other nations passed, unless they, too, were to keep on building against one another.

The whole world rejoices at the evidence produced by the Washington conference that any insane, human, barbarous policy is not to be followed. Britain and the United States, the two greatest naval powers, are not distrustful of each other. Neither has any cause to fear attack from the other. And Japan, the third naval power, whose motives are not so well understood, has been asked to join in putting a stop to further construction of these huge and enormously expensive monsters of destruction and to "scrap" hundreds of millions of dollars worth of ships already built and building.

And the governments of these three countries have agreed to stop the suicidal, war-provoking race for naval supremacy. What ever the politicians, the militarists and armament manufacturers of these countries may think and desire, they fully realize that any Government which refused to entertain the proposal submitted at the Washington conference would be swept out of office by an outraged people. There may be changes in details of the plan submitted, but in the main it must be ratified because the people themselves so will it.

It will not be the first time that Britain and the United States "scraped" their navies, or, at least, portions of them. More than one hundred years ago these two countries by treaty pledged themselves not to maintain naval forces on the Great Lakes between Canada and the States. That agreement has been carried out by both countries, in letter and in spirit. For over a century there has been no threat of one against the other along the long international boundary line. Nor has either country in naval expansion on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts created vessels of a design intended for use against each other.

What the United States and Britain could and did do over one hundred years ago, and what they have succeeded in doing throughout the years that have followed, all nations ought to be not only willing but able to do in this still more enlightened age. The saving in money and consequent taxation of the people will be enormous, but the greatest benefit of all will be the removal of a standing threat against each other and the peace of the world which these huge fleets of battleships constituted.

The United States demonstrated its good-faith in calling the conference at Washington and in the proposals submitted to it. There was no compulsion on the United States to take such action. It is in a position to stand the strain of competitive naval armaments better than any other country. Britain has demonstrated her sincerity not only by acceptance of the program submitted, but in taking immediate action stopping all work on construction of new ships, including the four powerful battle-cruisers of the Hood type, and in urging a still further reduction in submarine construction. The four Hoods alone would have meant a cost equal to three dollars per head for every man, woman and child in the British Isles.

Canada is deeply interested in the outcome. It means that it will not be necessary for this Dominion to even take a start at creating a navy—a course which would have been inevitable if the old race in battleship building was to be continued. It is a further guarantee of continued peace between the two great branches of the English-speaking race, the breaking of which peace would make Canada the battlefield for the contending forces. It will remove danger of Canada becoming involved in a struggle between the United States and Japan, because the Washington proposals are bound to remove much of the growing friction between those two nations.

It is far better for the nations of the world to scrap their navies than to have their navies scrap. It is a great forward step towards turning the instruments of war into the machinery and tools of peaceful industry. Peace on earth, goodwill to men will have a new meaning this Christmas.

RHEUMATIC PAINS HAVE DISAPPEARED

As a Result of Treating the Trouble Through the Blood

The chief symptom of rheumatism is pain. The most successful treatment is the one that most quickly relieves and banishes the pain. Many rheumatic people suffer pains that can be avoided by building up the blood; when rheumatism is associated with thin blood it cannot be corrected until the blood is built up.

Mr. Ed. Hall, Main-a-Dieu, N.S., suffered from rheumatism for years, but was more fortunate than many victims of the disease for he found a remedy that so built up his entire system that he is now free from rheumatism. Mr. Hall says: "I was taken down with rheumatism, and at times was under the treatment of several of the best doctors in Cape Breton, but they held out no hope for my recovery from the trouble. I was unable to get to my feet, and was helpless, unable to move, and had to be turned in sheets. My legs and fingers were drawn out of shape, and sores developed on my body as the result of my long confinement to bed. I was in this condition when I was advised the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I began taking them. The first benefit I felt from the pills was an improved appetite, and then I began to feel stronger, and was finally able to get out of bed and go about on crutches. I continued taking the pills for months, slowly but surely getting new strength, and finally I was able to lay the crutches aside. I will always be lame, as the result of my long stay in bed, my left leg has shortened somewhat, but otherwise I am feeling fine and able to do my work as a Fishery Overseer. I may add that when the rheumatism was on me I weighed 140 pounds, and when I began going about on crutches I only weighed 67 pounds, and now I am at normal weight. There are many here who know—and can vouch for the truth of these statements."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Princess Mary Betrothed

Engagement to Viscount Lascelles Has Been Announced

The betrothal of Princess Mary, only daughter of King George and Queen Mary, to Viscount Lascelles has been announced. Viscount Lascelles (Henry George Charles Lascelles) is the eldest son of the Earl of Harewood and is thirty-nine years of age. Princess Mary was twenty-four years old last April.

The Viscount, who was educated at Eton, was an attaché to the British Embassy in Rome from 1905 to 1907, and aide-de-camp to the Governor-General of Canada from 1907 to 1911, served with distinction in the Great War. He was three times wounded and won the Distinguished Service Order and bar, and the French Croix de Guerre.

Australian Woman

Invents Rich Dyes

Solves Secret After Experimenting for Thirty Years

Mrs. Eady-Hart, aged 76, of Ballarat, after more than 30 years' experiments in the perfection of vegetable dyes, claims to have discovered one of the great secrets of German dyeing.

Patent rights have been granted her in the Australian Commonwealth, Great Britain and India.

An expert, in a report on Mrs. Hart's discoveries, says:

"You have found more colors from vegetation than have ever before been found. We have seen endless color samples, but nothing has come under our notice to equal your browns, old gold and soft shades."

Mrs. Hart unfolded to an interviewer roll after roll of beautiful silks, crepe de chine, ribbons and serges.

"I am still finding new shades," she said. "There is scarcely a growing thing I cannot extract a color from. There are over a hundred eucalyptus varieties from which I can get different shades."

"The woods and vegetation in America and England are colorless compared with our Australian vegetation. Their wet, cold seasons do not produce much that can be used for dyes."

"Our Australian bush could supply the whole world with dyes."

Lions Took Charge

Were Scared From Railway Station by Engine Whistle

Nairobi tells us that a train approaching one of the stations the other day discovered it stalled, not by the human race, but by the lion. One lion paced the platform like a stationmaster. Another occupied the telephone office. A third, very appropriately, was in the refreshment room. There were no more, but the station staff decided that there were enough to deal with the local business and retired. The engine driver surveyed this lion house from afar, and, being a man of "infinite resources and sagacity," performed a fantasia of modern music upon the whistle. The lions recognized that civilization has horns surpassing the endurance of a primitive nature, and withdrew—London Daily Telegraph.

Agricultural Short Courses

Classes Will Be Held at Different Points in Saskatchewan

The programmes arranged by the extension department of the University of Saskatchewan for agricultural short courses which will be held in different sections of the province during the next four months, were announced by officials of the Department of Agriculture.

The classes are held under the auspices of the various agricultural societies. The organizations make application for the courses to the agricultural department and they are assisted in carrying out the scheme by the government. The courses are arranged to occupy one, two or three days.

Ventilating the Chicken House

Great Care Should Be Taken During Winter Months

Bulletin 176, Iowa, says: "The importance of ventilation is keeping the poultry house dry is not generally appreciated or understood. It has been found that an average hen breathes off over forty cubic feet of air per day and that this air is practically saturated with water at the temperature of the hen's body. One hundred hens breathe from their lungs over one and one-half gallons of water per day, which is sufficient, if perfectly dry air were used for ventilating, to saturate the air completely in a pen which allows 2.8 to 3.7 square feet of floor space per hen, every three-quarters of an hour when the temperature is at freezing point. As the outside air usually contains half enough moisture in cold weather to saturate it, twice the amount of ventilation is required under practical conditions to prevent condensation and consequent dampness. It is on this account that hens cannot be closely confined to separate roosting compartments without disastrous results from poultry diseases such as colds, catarrh and roup."

The Terror of Asthma comes like a thief in the night with its dreadful throttling, robbing its victim of breath. It seems beyond the power of human skill to relieve until one trial is made of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. Then relief comes promptly. Life becomes worth living, and if the remedy be used persistently, the disease is put to rout. Take no substitute.

Japan Has Many Floods

Six Hundred People Are Drowned Every Year

Floods, due to the denudation of the hills and trees, do an enormous amount of damage in Japan. The imagination of the tourist is caught by the fact that there are four earthquakes a day in Japan, and that within a twelve month fires may destroy four hundred acres or so of buildings, but floods cause much greater loss of life and property.

Every year on an average floods drown six hundred people and cause a money loss of 14 million yen. These appalling figures do not include the loss of life by typhoons and tidal waves.

A Danger to Automobilists

"Warming Up" Car in Garage Is a Bad Habit

Prof. Yandell Henderson, of Yale University, has issued timely warning against the often fatal practice of running the engine of a motor car in a small, tightly closed garage "to warm up." This is as bad, says the professor, as blowing out the gas before going to bed. A car produces one cubic foot or more of carbon monoxide every minute and in the ordinary car garage the air is contaminated to a deadly concentration within 20 minutes.

Wisdom Of Limiting Land Armament Is Considered Doubtful

Washington.—When the arms delegates quit work for the Thanksgiving Day recess the following three considerations embraced the central points of interest in their discussion:

Whether the effort to apply generally accepted principles to specific cases in the Far East would bring definite accomplishments or only lead to futile debate.

Whether, in view of the position of France and the general situation in Europe, any serious attempt could be made to agree on a limitation of land armament.

Whether a way can be found to hasten consideration of details on the naval limitation plan, which is proceeding smoothly, but too slowly to satisfy some of the delegates.

Of these questions the first was brought sharply to the fore by several direct clashes of opinion regarding elements of the Far Eastern negotiations. At the executive session of (the nine delegations, the right of the Chinese delegates to speak for the Chinese delegates was reported to have been questioned by France, and later a British interpretation of the general principles already adopted was challenged by some of the Chinese.

Earlier in the day the land armament problem had been debated behind closed doors by the delegates of the big five powers, without further result than the appointment of a sub-committee to consider collateral subjects like the use of airplanes and poison gases.

Premier Briand, of France, making his farewell speech to the conference, pressed his argument that his country dared not disarm unless he had guarantees from the other powers, and although the general discussion drew renewed expressions of sympathy from every other national group, no one proposed any formal joint declaration of policy.

FORTY MILLION BRITISH CONSUMERS DETERMINED EMBARGO MUST GO

Toronto.—Hon. Manning Doherty, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, declared that neither the English council of agriculture nor Sir Arthur Griffin Boscewan, British minister of agriculture, nor any ministers in England can prevent the lifting of the Canadian cattle embargo.

"Nothing can stop the demand of the forty million consumers of the British Isles who are determined that the embargo must go," Mr. Doherty added.

The Ontario minister of agriculture's remarks were based upon a report that the council of agriculture in England by a vote of 47 to 11 adopted a resolution pressing the British Government to maintain the regulations providing for slaughter of cattle at the port of entry.

Club Thrown At Prince In Bombay

Vancouver.—A special cable to the Vancouver World says that while the Prince of Wales was entering a building in Bombay a club was thrown at his head by someone in the crowd of spectators. The missile missed its mark and the Prince passed into the building unharmed. A great crowd had assembled to witness the visit of the arrivals for the ball, which was being given in connection with the Prince's visit to Bombay. The assailant escaped, so far as cables indicate, in the confusion which followed the attack.

Teachers Demand Wage Increase

Immediate Action Must Be Taken in New Westminster

New Westminster, B.C.—Seventy-four teachers in the high and public schools here have their resignations ready to present to the board of school trustees unless that body puts into effect the award of the board of arbitration last May approving the scale of wages sanctioned by the Teachers' Federation. The award means an increase in salaries for the teachers, but the board has refused to comply. The resignations would take effect the first of the year. The teachers held a meeting recently at which this line of action was approved.

Lloyd George Sends Regrets

Sorry He Cannot Attend Annual Dinner of Canadian Club

New York.—A letter received by President Albert Oliver of the Canadian Club of New York from E. J. Stevenson, secretary to Mr. Lloyd George, expresses the regret of the British Prime Minister that he will be unable to address the club at its annual dinner.

In the event of his being able to come to the United States, the Prime Minister's message runs, "he fears that the time at his disposal will be very short and will have to be devoted entirely to the work of the Conference on Limitation of Armaments."

Words Not Enough Says Kipling

Action Must Be Taken Against German Danger

Paris.—Rudyard Kipling, when asked by the Relief for his opinions of the Washington Conference, replied that the speeches were of no avail. "There must be acts guaranteeing security against the German danger," Kipling declared it was to the interest of Great Britain and France to remain closely united to face Germany, the common enemy.

Shipyard Workers Killed

Victims of Bomb Explosion in Belfast Disorders

Belfast.—Two persons were killed outright and eight were wounded when a bomb exploded in a tramcar carrying a load of shipyard workers. The city, which has been the scene of several outbreaks of shooting recently, had been comparatively quiet. This new explosion, however, brings the total number of deaths since the disorders began to 22.

Winter Work Will

Year Would Be Saved On Big Irrigation Project

Calgary.—Representations will be made immediately to the department of the Interior, Ottawa, by the Calgary Board of Trade in support of a resolution presented by the Hanna Board of Trade, urging that survey parties be continued through the winter months in the North Saskatchewan irrigation area, now known as the William Pearce irrigation scheme.

This action was decided upon by the council of the local Board of Trade after having the project outlined to them by William Pearce.

It was represented that should the survey parties continue working throughout the winter months, the necessary data required to estimate the approximate cost of the scheme would be available next spring, which would avoid a possible delay in operations of perhaps a year.

From investigations already made, it would appear to be practically certain that Sullivan Lake can be made an immense reservoir, requiring considerable digging on the east side to render it so.

Choose Leader For Himalaya Expedition

Brig-General Bruce Will Head Mt. Everest Expedition

London.—Colonel Sir Francis E. Younghusband, president of the Royal Geographical Society, announced that Brig-General Charles Bruce, who is well acquainted with the region, has accepted the leadership for next year of the expedition which will attempt to reach the summit of Mount Everest, in the Himalayas, the highest peak in the world.

Appeal Dismissed

Toronto.—Justice Mowat has dismissed without costs the action brought by Lieut.-Col. Lorne Muller to confine an injunction restraining the town of Ingersoll Falls from levying taxes on the basis of an assessment roll which doubled the assessments made by a former assessor.

Approves Two-Year Enlistments

Paris.—President Millerand approved for submission to parliament a military recruiting bill authorizing two-year enlistments and lightening present restrictions.

Premier Hughes Anxious To Experiment With Empire Air Service

Government Ships Will Move Grain

Toronto.—Several ships of the Government Merchant Marine Limited are racing to head of the lakes from the seaboard to help in a great movement of grain. The grain will be rushed to Georgian Bay points, and from there by rail to the seaboard.

Monday, Dec. 12, is the last day upon which insurance will be available on the Great Lakes. Nov. 30 is the final date for the ordinary season's business, but there is a post-season arrangement which covers vessels and cargoes until Dec. 12, but no longer.

Mophals Killed In Recent Fighting

Much to Be Done Before Rebellion Is Quelled

London.—Although the official report of the operations against the Mophals in Southern India declares that considerable progress is being made in dealing with the rebellion, it is evident that the process of clearing up still involves severe fighting from the fact that 233 Mophals were killed and 51 captured, and on the British side one Gurkha officer and one British officer were killed in the drive north of the Bepore River. A large concentration of Mophals under all the best known leaders, is reported as taking place at Bear Chumbrasseries, and the British authorities think it would probably be most satisfactory, from a military viewpoint, if this force could be induced to give battle.

China's Financial Crisis Averted

Three Months' Pay Received For Police and Soldiers

Peking.—The financial crisis which threatened the stability of the government has been averted temporarily through remittances from the provincial military governors, totalling 7,000,000 taels. Such heavy remittances from the provinces are unprecedented. The provincial funds are sufficient to pay the police and soldiers three months' wages, thereby averting the threatened looting of the capital, but will not provide for the civil administration. High civil officials are supporting the government banks by transferring their personal funds to Peking and as a result notes are again negotiable.

Puts Responsibility On Alberta Doctors

Have Been Given Choice Regarding Liquor Prescriptions

Calgary.—Physicians and surgeons of Alberta have had it put squarely upon them by J. D. Brownlee, attorney-general, as to just how many liquor prescriptions each one shall write during a month. By giving the doctors the choice of writing anywhere from a minimum of 25 to a maximum of 100 prescriptions a month, the responsibility for prescribing liquor other than for medicinal uses is put squarely on the shoulders of the individual doctor.

Big Profit On Liquor Sales

B.C. Government Nets $541,606 In Three and Half Months

Victoria, B.C.—The British Columbia Government made a net profit of $541,606 on liquor sales for the first three and one-half months of operation under the Liquor Sales Board from June 15 to September 30, according to a balance sheet filed in the Legislature by Hon. J. W. de B. Farris, attorney-general, in accordance with the terms of the Liquor Control Act. This does not include the $121,000 received from the sale of permits.

Double Premium

London.—The Board of Trade announces that the German Government has doubled the premium level when gold duties under the customs tariff are paid in paper currency. Thus four thousand paper marks must be paid for each hundred marks in gold instead of two thousand marks as previously.

London.—A cable from Reuter's Melbourne correspondent states that Premier Hughes has invited the House of Representatives to consider a proposal for an experimental air service between Australia and Europe, with the airships as a free gift from the British Government.

It is estimated that the total cost for two years' service would be £1,640,000, of which Great Britain would contribute half and the Dominion half. The British Dominions' contribution on a per capita basis would cost about $300,000 for the experiment. Assuming that the Dominions' years was one-half, Australia's proportion would be $200,000.

Premier Hughes stated if the House of Representatives was not hostile to the proposal he would have a statement compiled showing what the liability would be and whether the experiment would be worth the money, if only as an advertisement.

Embarrassed By People's Greeting

Princess Mary and Lord Lascelles

London.—Princess Mary made her first public appearance with Lord Lascelles, her fiancé, since their betrothal, when the two left Buckingham Palace in an open carriage with Queen Mary for a drive through Hyde Park. Although the news that they were to drive out became known only shortly before their departure, quite a large crowd assembled in the vicinity of Buckingham Palace and cheered the Royal party heartily as the carriage drove away.

Crowds quickly gathered along the route and made the drive partake of the nature of a triumphal progress, much to the perceptible embarrassment of Princess Mary and the apparent satisfaction of the Queen and Lord Lascelles.

The Queen and the Princess' lunch at the home of Lord Lascelles at his home, Chesham House, which will eventually be the home of Princess Mary.

Wants to Restrict State Parliament

Australian Premier Introduces Bill to Extend Federal Power

London.—A Reuter cable from Melbourne says that Premier Hughes introduced in the House of Lords a federal convention bill designed to amend the constitution of the commonwealth to give greater power to the Federal Parliament, and lessen powers to the state legislatures. The bill provides for the election of 111 members, comprising 18 elected by the Federal Parliament, 18 by the state parliaments and 75 by the adult franchise of the commonwealth. Within a year after the first meeting, the convention must report on constitutional amendments desirable and within 15 days the necessary legislation will be introduced.

Dog Returns Purse And Holds Thief

Montreal Man Sent Bound To Assist Woman

Montreal.—The sagacity of a Belgian police dog, belonging to Joseph Cote, led to the arrest of Arthur Leblanc, who snatched a purse from Mrs. MacFarland as she was walking home. Hearing the woman's cries, Mr. Cote, who was passing in his auto, accompanied by his dog, sent the animal after the thief, who took refuge behind some bushes. The astute hound first seized the stolen purse and dashed back with it to his master. He then ran back and, cornering Leblanc, held him until the arrival of a police officer.

French Have Flying Auto

Ordinary Machine Has Folding Wings And Two Engines

Paris.—A flying automobile is the latest development in the French aero world. A successful demonstration of an ordinary automobile with folding wings, two engines, one of ten horsepower for land going and the other of 300 horsepower for air travel, was held recently at Bre, Seine-et-Oise.

Quest At Rio Janeiro

Rio Janeiro.—Sir Ernest Shackleton, with his ship Quest on an Antarctic expedition, has arrived here. The expedition is expected to remain here about two weeks.

Winnipeg Store Robbed

Young Bandit Held Up Employees and Cleaned Out Till

Winnipeg.—A youthful bandit, about 22 years of age, entered a drug store at the corner of Gerle and Notre Dame Avenues, shot the manager and his assistant, cleaned out the till and escaped.

J. Wilder, the manager, was shot in the arm and hip, and A. Davis, the assistant, was shot in the abdomen and is seriously wounded. Both are in hospital.

No "hands up" command was given by the assailant, who simply entered the store and started firing at the two victims. The amount of money stolen is not yet known.

Steamer Crew Mutiny

Men Tried to Sack Vessel After Being Discharged

Rome.—A despatch to the Tempo of Naples reports that a mutiny occurred among the crew of the steamer Montreuil (from Montreal) Nov. 4, bound for Naples and Genoa, which recently arrived at Naples. The crew, says the despatch, was discharged upon reaching port and some of the sailors after disembarking tried to sack the vessel, but were dispersed by the police.

Ready for Reconciliation With Italy

London.—A Central News despatch from Rome says the Tempo publishes an interview with Cardinal Gasparri, the Papal secretary, who is quoted as having asserted that Pope Benedict is ready for a reconciliation with Italy. Relations between the Holy See and the Italian Government ceased in 1870, when Rome was incorporated by Royal decree with Italy and made the capital of the kingdom.

Objection to Tariff Proposals

London.—Reuter's correspondent at Wellington reports that since the new tariff proposals were introduced in the New Zealand Parliament, there has been an outcry from the manufacturers of New Zealand against the proposal to place Australia on a preferential basis with the rest of the Empire, although the Commonwealth Government has given no such privilege to New Zealand.

Students' Campaign Fails

Toronto.—The campaign among University students under the auspices of the students' confederation to raise money for needy European students has practically collapsed. Very little interest is being taken because of the fact that a portion of the proceeds were designed for German students.

Canada Receives Oranges From Japan

Vancouver, B.C.—Sixty-one crates of Japanese miniature oranges, which arrived on the Monteleone from Japan, about 50 cars are destined to Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba. These have gone east.

Propose Nine-Hour Day

Question in Britain Likely to Become Serious Issue Shortly

London.—Questions affecting the length of the working day in several big industries are likely to become a serious issue within the next few weeks. The dock transport employers propose an extension of the eight-hour day by an extra hour, and probably the workers' representatives will resist. A national delegate conference of the Transport Workers Federation will be held shortly to decide on a course of action.

There is also a deadlock in the tramways industry, nationally over the proposal of the employers to revise the agreement guaranteeing the workers a 48-hour week. The workers' side of the joint industrial council is opposed to any extension. No agreement could be reached when the proposal was discussed recently and the Municipal Tramways Association has now called a national conference of the municipal tramways authorities and the private companies of London for December 9 to decide on the employers' attitude prior to any meeting of the industrial council at which the issue will be further considered.

Not Conference Result

London.—The partial suspension in the recruiting of seamen for the navy has no connection with the Washington Conference, but is due to the fact that the admiralty, for a long time, has been scrapping obsolete vessels and generally grading the personnel of the navy in pursuance of its policy of retrenchment.

Six Live On $5 a Week

Brighton, Eng.—The arrest of Thomas Scuse, a war veteran, on the charge of stealing three pairs of shoes, revealed the fact that he had to support a family of six on earnings of $5 a week. Scuse was held for investigation.

Afghan Independence

London.—Great Britain and Afghanistan have signed a treaty of friendship recognizing the complete independence of Afghanistan. There was great ceremony at the signature which took place at Kabul, the Afghan capital.

Toronto.—A search is being made throughout Canada for Solomon Kaplan, a wealthy clothing manufacturer of Brooklyn, New York, who mysteriously disappeared on October 25, while carrying $18,000 in cash.

Let us endeavor to so live that when we come to die even the undertaker will be sorry.—Mark Twain.

Reply to Mr. Bird's Letter

In replying to Mr. Bird's letter, which appeared in our issue of last week, re socialism and Mrs. Booth-Clibborn. We would like to ask the writer how he compares Mrs. Booth-Clibborn with orthodox religion? She simply teaches Christ's religion, and to our way of thinking is doing more by teaching that religion to bring about that ideal state, socialism, which Mr. Bird writes so fully about, than any other method suggested by any theorist to day.

The teachings of Mrs. Booth-Clibborn and other noted followers of the Christian faith are responsible for the privileges that we enjoy to day. Before you can have socialism you must have a new spirit, and the Christ teaching is the spirit of socialism and more. How are you going to transform hatred into love, jealousy into good will, resentment and revenge into reconciliation, and selfishness into Christian service without the spirit of Christ implanted in the hearts of the people? This is where Mrs. Booth-Clibborn and other noted evangelists lay the foundation stone for socialism.

Mr. Bird would give the impression in his letter that, Christianity makes people satisfied with their lot in this world and only waiting for their reward in heaven. This is not so, for had there not been men like Paul, Latimer, Cranmer and a host of other true soldiers of Christ who sacrificed their lives for the principles of Christian brotherhood, this generation would not be enjoying the privileges which we have to-day.

All the great freedoms, democracies are built upon the bible and if taken to heart will fit men to live in this world and play the game square with his fellowman.

Christ was utterly out of the line of the world's development. Born in a most barren age, and in one of the obscurest villages in the world. His only teachers were His peasant mother, His bible and His daily handicraft. We may safely say that the name of a Greek or Roman sage had never been breathed at Nazareth. As a Jew He belonged to the most conservative race of mankind, and yet His life is full of unheard-of acts, without precedent or parallel, as His doctrines reveal truths concealed from all ages of the world. Though He had only three years of public life, and only eleven humble followers to transmit His religion to mankind, He yet, without effort or wavering, taught those original conceptions which have changed the world, and to which centuries of enormous mental activity have practically added nothing. The ideals of modern philosophy have not a single good point which is not found in Christ's teachings.

Mrs. C. S. Belden, who has been visiting her parents in Calgary, returned Saturday.

The Alpine Club of Canada

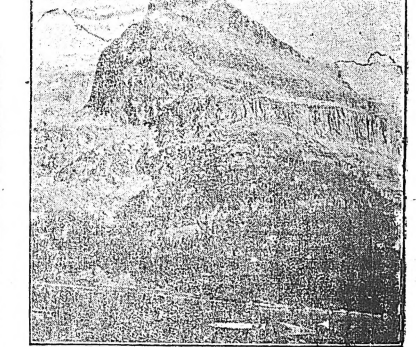

Living Room Alpine Club,
at Banff.

Of all the trails, the mountain ones are most alluring each year they call to the members of the Alpine Club of Canada who held their annual camp this season at Lake O'Hara. The Camp, known as the "O'Hara Meadows Camp" was an open Alpine Meadow at an altitude of 6,600 feet above sea level, gay with mountain blooms.

The Lake, an Alpine gem, in whose bright surface with witchery of reflection, towering mountains are held captive, with the bright green of the forests that surround the shore.

This Alpine realm is the heart of the Rockies, a realm of crags and canyons, of encircling and overhanging peaks, has a variety of charms that are never exhausted. The mountains, ranging from ten thousand to eleven thousand, five hundred feet above sea level, include the matchless picture of Lefroy glacier, the great white peaks of Victoria, the massive Cathedral Crags, Stephen, Odaray and other giants of the Rockies. Each new view beckoned to fresh delights. Below Odaray is the cabin built by the Swiss guides in which there is always a camper's cache.

In 1909 the Alpine Club of Canada opened its club house headquarters at Banff and held a special annual camp at Lake O'Hara. It was unique in that an invitation to attend this camp, as guests of the Alpine Club of Canada, was sent to the president and members of the Alpine Club, England. A party of 20 accepted the invitation. The guests included mountaineers, well known in many parts of the world. It is interesting to note that in 1920 the Alpine Club of Canada became affiliated with the "Alpine Club" of England, the oldest and most famous of all Alpine clubs. The annual camp is for the purpose of enabling members of the club to meet together amid the great hills of Canada, and to assist graduating members to qualify for active membership. Those who have made an ascent of at least 2,500 feet, are eligible for active membership. Those distinguished in literature, art or science, rising to mountain heights given certain recognition.

At Lake O'Hara.

The objects of the club are the study as well as interesting photographs of well known mountaineers of Europe and Canada. The group of men and women who founded the Alpine Club of Canada, are pictured at their first meeting in Winnipeg in 1906. Included are Professor Coleman of Toronto and Mrs. Parkes of the Winnipeg "Free Press." There is a picture of Sir James Outram, the first man to climb Mount Assiniboine, the Matterhorn of Canada, and many others of interest.

The stone fireplace in the spacious living room was built in memory of William S. Vaux, a student of glaciers who died in 1908. The striking fountain in the hall was given by the late Edward Whymper, the hero of the Matterhorn—in its basin, in a bed of moss, grows the little yellow mountain rose. A treasure of the Club House is a worn copy of the 1917 Constitution of the Alpine Club of Canada, framed, hanging on the walls of the library. Under is the caption, "Found in a German dug-out when the Canadians captured Vimy Ridge."—C. G.

Great Interest Taken In Developing Clubs For Boys And Girls

It is only a few years since boys and girls of rural Canada toiled in the first clubs devoted to poultry, calf and canning projects. These clubs are now numbered by the hundred and the membership by the thousand. It is not so generally known, however, that much of this work was made possible by an act passed by the Dominion Parliament in 1913, which provided ten million dollars for distribution among the provinces to finance instructional work for the benefit of the agricultural community. From that time the development and spread of such clubs was very marked, and they continue to increase in numbers and range of activities year by year. While developed under governmental auspices, rural communities entered into the spirit of the thing, subscribing money for prizes, and showing their approval by attending the school fairs (also of comparatively recent origin) at which the livestock and other products were exhibited. Women's institutes took part; bankers agreed to advance to the boys themselves money enough to pay for the original livestock purchased; livestock yards, meat packing concerns and leading exhibitors took the matter up and offered inducements to the competitors. From the local school fair the exhibits and competitions extended to the larger exhibitions, and classes are now being provided in the prize lists for exhibits of pigs, calves and poultry reared by boys and girls. A great part of the money devoted to the purpose by each of the provinces is forthcoming from the funds derived under the Agricultural Instruction Act and it is largely due to the passing of the act referred to that the work has made such rapid progress. The results go a long way to justify the passage of the measure. In Manitoba this movement has been very materially assisted, and the same is true of Saskatchewan and other Western Provinces, where, although the development has not been so rapid perhaps as in the province first named, it has nevertheless been substantial and is leading to equally good results. By means of these practical undertakings boys and girls are being developed to make use of their talents and abilities in a way that will add to their success and usefulness not only on the farm but in whatever calling they may eventually undertake.

One On Van Dyke

School Children Thought Fire Drill Instruction Applied to Everything
The principal of a certain school prided himself on the speed with which his pupils went through the fire drill. When he asked them, "What would you children do if I told you there was a fire in the building?" the answer he had taught them rolled with astonishing glossiness from their tongues.

One day Dr. Henry Van Dyke was to lecture to the pupils. In introducing him the principal asked, "Now children, what would you do if I told you that Dr. Henry Van Dyke was to lecture here today?"

And three hundred voices responded in singing, "We would rise promptly, put away our books and then quietly and without disorder, but as quickly as possible, file out to the street."

Want Auto License Plates Changed

Those Used in Manitoba Are More Easily Remembered
That the Saskatchewan Government's auto license plates might assume a change for the better in respect to being more readily readable, and more easily remembered, was a suggestion made at a meeting of the directors of the Board of Trade held in Regina. It was pointed out that the license plates used in Manitoba were much better in these respects than those in Saskatchewan, the number in that province being hyphenated.

White-Gloved Executioner
In Austria the public executioner wears a pair of new white gloves every time he is called upon to carry out a capital sentence. The Austrian official takes off the gloves directly after the execution has been carried out, and there is often great competition among curiosity hunters to secure those worn when dispatching noted criminals.

Made Him Nervous
A very nervous man visited a famous nerve specialist for treatment. "Do you drink much coffee?" asked the doctor.
"About four saucers full," answered the patient.
"Why don't you drink out of a cup?"
"Because when I do the spoon gets in my eye."

Treaties With Russia

Prove Unsatisfactory

Economical Conditions Getting Worse and Gold Supply Decreasing
Foreign Minister Korneichuk told the Netherlands Parliament the other day that England, Germany and Norway were greatly disappointed over the results of their commercial treaties with Russia. He said that Russian production was so unimportant that barter was impossible, that the economical conditions in Russia were getting worse and that the Russian gold supply was rapidly decreasing.

The minister was skeptical about opening diplomatic relations with Russia, saying that the Soviet Government was not prepared to approach the Dutch Government for recognition. This, he said, was natural because recognition would mean respect by Russia for the Dutch Government and they could hardly expect the Dutch to respect the Soviet form of government.

Clemenceau Now Writing His Life

Fragments Are to Be Destroyed if Book Not Finished

While Paris celebrated the third anniversary of the Armistice, her principal political figure in the drama of 1918 sat in seclusion in his little flat in the Rue Franklin writing the first chapter of the work in which he intended to embody the fruits of his long career. Georges Clemenceau, to a friend said smilingly:
"Like Charles Quint, I have seen my own funeral."
Physically and intellectually, the "Tiger" is as well, alert and vigorous as ever. He counts on completing his book in three years, but has ordered in his will that in case he dies without finishing it, the fragments are to be burned.

Starts Extensive Pig Farm

Major Digby Believes There Is Money In Industry

Major Montague Digby, a cousin of Lord Digby, and a bachelor figure in Boodle's, and the Bachelor's, is one of those who believe there is money in pigs. He has started an extensive pig farm near Brighton and a shop for marketing his wares at 41 Ebury Street, Victoria.

Major Digby has instituted a method of killing pigs which is better not only for the pig but also for everyone within earshot. A horn-shaped instrument is applied to the forehead of the animal and it is killed instantaneously, and neighbors are spared those cursing, ghastly squeals that the unfortunate animals give when they are having their throats cut.

Banded Birds Killed

Many From Saskatchewan Have Travelled Long Distance

Hundreds of birds, migrants of the great north, were banded by the game guardians several months ago, in order that their flights might be studied. The first bird banded—a mud hen—at Kristin, in the central part of Saskatchewan, has been killed near Rochester, N.Y. The bird was evidently making its way to salt water by way of the Great Lakes, and was doing fairly well considering the fact that mud hens are considered poor fliers. Others of the banded birds have been shot in the far south, and many in the Central States.

Brandon Winter Fair In March

Directors Plan to Make Show Better Than Ever

At a meeting of the directors of the Brandon Winter Fair Board, it was decided to hold the annual fair from March 5 to 10. Some of these present were in favor of an earlier date.

The directors plan to make the show this year the best ever. It is expected that the fine new fireproof building will form an attractive feature to exhibitors. Special attractions will also be put on each evening in the arena.

Elevator Extension

Work has been started on a 2,000-bushel elevator extension to the North Western Elevator at Fort William, Ont., which is owned by Sellers Interests. This company has purchased a large site adjoining its elevator upon which it will build additional grain storage bins.

Jinks—Say, old man, lend me five dollars, will you?
Binks—Will you lend me ten dollars?

Binks—Oh, yes, but I wish I had heard you the first time.

Decrease In Number Of Milk Cows

Feed Shortage In 1920 Forced Farmers To Sacrifice Stock

From the figures compiled by the Statistics Branch of the Department of Agriculture for Saskatchewan, it is shown that the number of milk cows in the province in 1920 was some 20,000 less than in the previous year. This fact does not result from any lack of interest in dairying but is a direct result of the unfortunate conditions which obtained for stockmen during the year and more particularly during the winter months. Owing to the very serious feed shortage large numbers of both milk cows and heifers which would have been coming into milk had to be sacrificed and also many head were lost through disease resulting chiefly from the run down condition of the animals.

Wild Lands In Saskatchewan

Total Acreage Assessed to April 30, 1920, Was 469,969

According to the report of the Wild Lands Tax Commissioner, published in the annual report of the Department of Municipal Affairs, Saskatchewan, for the year ending April 30, 1921, the total acreage of land assessed under The Wild Lands Tax Act in local improvement districts, was 469,969, with an assessed valuation of $4,751,123.00. The valuations for the purpose of this assessment were based upon the reports of the inspectors attached to the branch, an important part of whose work is to make a survey of all the lands in the local improvement districts ascertain the areas under cultivation and report as to their liability to the wild lands tax.

Report Guns Stolen

By Irish Soldiers

Inquiries Suggest That Missing Arms Were Removed Openly

A number of machine guns and rifles have been stolen from the Victoria Barracks, Windsor, where the Irish Guards are quartered, according to the Daily Mail. The newspaper says the robbery was one of the most remarkable ever investigated. It believes the guns and rifles were taken by soldiers of the Irish Guards, who are supposed to have escaped to Ireland.

"Inquiries," the newspaper adds, "suggest that the missing arms were removed quite openly and sent to an unknown destination."

It is not the prize that is the great thing; it is the effort which has deserved the prize.—Bishop Weidman.

Australia's Empty Places

Great Northern Territories Are Menace to Safety

"Australia is, I think, loyal to the core, and yet self-interest is with nation the basis of all policy, and so long as the British fleet can guard the shores of the great empty northern territories a region as big as Britain, Germany, France and Austria put together, they have need of us."

"So long as the British Empire lasts, Australia is safe, and in twenty years' time her own enlarged population will probably make her safe without help from anyone. But her empty places are a danger. I have never yet understood why the Commonwealth has not made a serious effort to attract to the northern territories those Italians who are flooding the Argentine. It is great blood, and no race is the poorer for it—the blood of ancient Rome."—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle.

Prince of Wales at Bombay

Great Enthusiasm Marked Reception and Holiday Was Declared

Reuter's correspondent with the Prince of Wales, in a long detailed despatch, describes the reception of the Prince by the populace of Bombay, when he landed, and during the four-mile procession through the city, as very warm. The splendid military cortege at various points along the route touched the fringe of the native bazaar, where there was tumultuous enthusiasm, unprecedented in the history of Bombay.

The route of the procession was lined with British and Indian troops. A public holiday had been declared, and all the inhabitants closed their shops and flocked into the streets to greet the Prince, whose bearing made a great impression.

Resembles a Springbok

Horns Developed On Nine-Year-Old

A native with horns like those of a springbok has been brought to Johannesburg from the Rand, South Africa. The horns began to develop when he was nine years of age, and despite frequent cutting, continue to grow. In every other respect the man is normal.

It is highly probable, in view of the medical interest in the case, that he will be sent to Europe.

Every year Sumatra imports hundreds of tons of old newspapers. The equator runs through the island and the papers are used as parasols to protect tender rubber and sugar cane roots.

Nothing To Hinder Prairie Provinces From Producing Good Corn

Urge Bounty On Coyotes

Destruction of Saskatchewan Sheep Makes Some Action Necessary

Replacement of the bounty on coyotes is desired by the Saskatchewan Sheep Breeders' Association. They contend that the destruction of sheep in the province, especially in the area west of Swift Current and in the Qu'Appelle Valley, is such that some action by the government is desirable, and they voiced the opinion at their executive meeting in Regina that the restoration of the bounty on coyotes, who are doing the damage, would do much to solve the problem. They will shortly place before the Minister of Agriculture facts collected by them, concerning the number of sheep destroyed by coyotes, coupled with a request that the government take such action as they see fit.

Stone Church Front Moved

Engineering Feat Was Accomplished In Two Days

An unusual engineering feat, described and illustrated in Popular Mechanics for December, was accomplished in Buffalo, N.Y., when the entire front of a large stone church, the Central Presbyterian, was "sliced" off and moved forward 30 ft. to the side walk. The front contains the main entrance arch, the cornerstones, and two massive pilasters. The slice was 8 ft. thick by 78 ft. wide, and 65 ft. high, and weighed approximately 1,000 tons. Fifteen jack screws, fixed in pump jacks, were used for the moving. At a whistle signal these were simultaneously given one quarter turn by the workmen. One turn moved the slice 1-6 in., and the distance covered in 30 minutes was about 25 in. The actual moving was completed in two days.

Prospects For Trapping

With the trapping season just opening, prospects for the hunter after furs in Northern Saskatchewan are good, judging from reports received recently by Fred Bradshaw, chief game guardian for the province.

Do good regardless of consequence. He who is always wondering "what others will say" never makes much progress.

A Playground in Quebec

PAUGAN FALLS, IN THE GATINEAU DISTRICT

Canada bids fair to become in the near future the playground of the world! Ours is pre-eminently a country of natural resources—industrial ambitions, notwithstanding!—and not the least among these are our park areas, vast tracts of land that are not suitable for agricultural operations, nor required for manufacturing purposes, nor needed for populous settlements.

Such a region is that one called "the Gatineau," 15,000 square miles of mountainous grandeur that rival the Catskills for scenery, Olympus for atmosphere, and than which there is no more alluring field for sportsmen this side of the happy hunting ground. The Gatineau district is a natural park, accessible and already half opened, with a railway and a motor road, which though far from perfect at the time of writing is used by an increasing number of tourists.

The country offers a life as strenuous as the pioneer demands, or as restful as the faded urbane dreams of, but desirous of obtaining.

Canada is gradually awakening to the commercial value of her park areas, her playgrounds; to the fact that she has something that older countries—countries settled before the need for "national lungs" was recognized—lack.

She is beginning to realize that an amazing increase in motor traffic necessitates the providing of some objective for tourist travel, and that the more attractive the objective, the greater the number of tourists. Tourist revenue and a very satisfactory type of revenue, for in enjoying and benefiting by a sojourn in one of our playgrounds, they leave the scenery undiminished in grandeur, and they take away nothing that impoverishes the country. So keenly are many cities competing for this tourist traffic, that they provide camps, for motorists and vie with one another in offering attractions that may induce a brief sojourn, at least, within the municipality.

The Gatineau is like a hen waiting to lay golden eggs and needing only a little bit of corn in front of her to set the machinery in operation.

The corn in this case, stands, for adequate accommodation.

The absence of hotels has been for the lovers of the Gatineau one of its principal charms. There has been no danger from invading hordes capable of desecrating its vast solitudes with jazz band and ukelele, and building picture houses to shut out the glory of the sky. Chelsea, Kingsmere, Farm Point and Blue Sea Lake (where the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire elected to spend their summers), are almost as a closed Paradise to any save those who have cat-gages. Yet, although all of these places are undeniably beautiful and desirable by reason of their exclusiveness, they do not comprise even half of the Gatineau.

The vicinity of Paugan Falls can scarcely be equalled as a hotel site. Paugan is an Indian word meaning "pipe" and is descriptive of the shape of the Falls. While these may not be mentioned in the same breath with Niagara or similar glories, yet they have their own peculiar charm; the approach, the setting, the coloring of the surrounding hills, the indescribable atmosphere of romance that pervades the district. Over the Paugan, a rainbow arch spans the two shores on sunny days and when clouds threaten Old Sol with death, the prismatic colors fade into a shimmering mist. Below the Paugan Falls the Gatineau River grows calm and forms not only a safe lake for boating, but an ideal swimming pool, bordered as it is for a half a mile with a stretch of amber sand.—M. M.

A striking feature of the 1921 harvest in the Canadian western provinces was the quantity of corn to be seen on every hand, adding a novel touch to the western landscape of a few years ago. The traveler through the countryside encountered on all sides splendid sturdy stands of the growing crop, and later met plots and fields of the tall ripened sheaves ready for the silo and the winter's feed bin. The stalwart growth and excellent yields of the corn of the Prairie Provinces have occasioned exclamations of amazement and admiration from visitors across the line who, dwelling in what are known as the "Corn States," are in the best position to appreciate the "wonderful production of Western Canadian soil. In ingrained belief that the corn territory alone on the continent possessed the properties for successful corn production, their astonishment and marvel can be imagined.

It is not so very many years ago since staples said that wheat could never be grown profitably in Canada, and gradually the growth and extension of Western Canadian cultivation saw the wheat belt travel northward in its wake, until now it is generally acknowledged to lie well within the Canadian West, a situation attested by a decade's uninterrupted successes in winning international honors for territory alone on the continent possessed the properties for successful corn production, their astonishment and marvel can be imagined.

Mail Fourteen Years Late

Postcards Mailed in 1907 Have Just Reached Destination

Speaking of the rapidity of the mails, a detective of Jersey City knows something about it. In August, 1907, fourteen years ago, he passed his vacation in Atlantic City and Ocean City. And inasmuch as he had left his wife at home he thought it best to send her postal cards telling her of his safe arrival and subsequent good behavior. He sent cards from both places. When he returned home his wife wanted to know why he had not written. He assured her that he had, but—well, the matter was forgotten until one morning recently. In the morning mail, fresh and as convincing as though they had been mailed the day before, were the cards. Where they had been these last fourteen years is a secret which probably will be buried in the mysteries of the U.S. Postal Department.

Cut Trees For Foch

Caught In Jam, Marshal's Car Taken Along Sidewalks

Trees were cut down to permit Marshal Foch to attend the ceremonies of the unknown American soldier at Arlington. Arriving late at the Union Station, the Marshal's automobile started for Arlington. Before it had proceeded many blocks, it encountered the jam of motor cars, four abreast, stalled while trying to get to the national cemetery.

The secret service men decided that the only way Marshal Foch could reach the amphitheatre to line was via sidewalks. But when it came to making right angle turns the automobile was, too big. So they borrowed axes and chopped down the decorative trees lining the sidewalk to permit the big machine to turn and reach the cemetery on time.

Entirely New Treatment For Bronchitis, Catarrh.

Oh, Money! Money!

It was about this time, however, that Mr. Smith began to demand certain extra luxuries—honey, oysters, sardines, dried fruits and imported jellies. They were always luxuries that must be bought, not prepared in the home; and he promptly increased the price of his board—but to a sum far beyond the extra cost of the delicacies he ordered. When Miss Maggie remonstrated at the size of the increase, he scoffed at her objections, and declared that even that did not pay for having such, a nuisance of a boarder around, with all his fussy notions. He insisted, moreover, that the family should all partake freely of the various delicacies, declaring that it seemed to take away the sting of his fustiness if they ate as he ate, and so did not make him appear singular in his tastes.

Of the Blaisdells Mr. Smith saw a good deal that winter. They often came to Miss Maggie's, and occasionally he called at their homes. Mr. Smith was on excellent terms with them all. They seemed to regard him, indeed, as quite one of the family, and they asked his advice and discussed their affairs before him with as much freedom as if he were, in truth, member of the family.

He knew that Mrs. Hattie Blaisdell was having a very gay winter, and that she had been invited twice to the Gaylords'. He knew that James Blaisdell was happy in long evenings with his looks before the fire. From Fred's mother he learned that Fred had made the most exclusive club in college, and, finally, when he learned that the boy was already leaving his class in his studies. He heard of Desale's visits to the homes of wealthy New Yorkers, and of the trial's Benny's teachers were having with Benny.

He knew something of Miss Piora's plaid life in her "house of mourning" (as Bessie had dubbed the little cottage), and he heard of the "perfectly lovely times" Mellicent was having at her finishing school. He dropped in occasionally to talk over the price of beans and potatoes with Mr. Frank Blaisdell in his bustling grocery store, and he often saw Mrs. Jane and Miss Maggie's. As for Maggie's, indeed, one day, that he heard Mrs. Jane say, as she sank wearily into a chair:—

"Well, I declare! Sometimes I think I'll never give anybody a thing again!"

Mr. Smith, at his table, was conscious of a sudden lively interest. So often, in his earlier acquaintance with Mrs. Jane, while he boarded there, had he heard her say to mission-workers, church-solicitors, and door-to-door beggars, alike, something similar to this: "I can give you nothing, I have nothing to give. I'd love to, if I could—really I would. It makes me quite unhappy to hear of all this need and suffering. I'd so love to do something! And if I were rich I would; but, as it is, I can only give you my sympathy and my prayers."

Mr. Smith was thinking of this now. He had wondered several times, since the money came, as to Mrs. Jane's giving. Hence his interest now in what she was about to say.

"Why, Jane, what's the matter?" Miss Maggie was querying.

"Everything's the matter," snapped Jane. "And positively a more ungrateful set of people all around I never saw. To begin with, take the church. You know I've never been able to do anything. I haven't got a cent. And now I was so happy that I could do something, and I told them so; and they seemed real pleased at first. I gave them two dollars apiece to the Ladies' Aid, the Home Missionary Society, and so on, and you know, they hardly even thanked me! They acted for all the world as if they expected more—the grating things! And listen! On the way home, just as I passed the Gale girls, I heard she say: 'What a dollar did it to her? She'll never miss it. They meant me, of course. So you see it wasn't appreciated. Now, was it?'"

"Perhaps not."

"What's the good of giving, if you aren't going to get any credit, or thanks, just because you're rich? I should like to know! And they aren't the only ones. Nothing has been appreciated," went on Mrs. Jane discontentedly. "Look at Cousin Mary Davis—you know how poor they've always been, and how hard it's been on them to get along. Her Carrie—Mellicent's age, you know—has had to go to work in Hooper's store. Well, I told Mellicent's old white lady party dress to Mary. 'T was some soiled, of course, and a little torn; but I thought she could clean it and make it over beautifully for Carrie. But, what do you think?—back it came the next day with a new dress from Mary saying that Carrie had no place to wear white lace dresses, and they had no time to make it over if she did, so she came to wear it, and didn't! Didn't I invite her to my housewarming? And didn't Hattie, too? But how are you going to help a person like that?"

"But, Jane, there must be ways—some ways," said Miss Maggie.

"Yes, but they should be grateful for anything!—anything! The trouble is, she wants to be helped in ways of her own choosing. They wanted me to take Sam the boy—the eighteen now—into the store; he says they cause all sorts of trouble with the other boys; and I can't want him to ask him to take any relatives of mine. As for Nellie—I did ask Hattie to take Sam, but she said she didn't like to do, or something, and she gave me a dozen for her—she said Nellie probably do them as cheap as anybody else; and I can't want her. But she told me not to go to the Gaylords or the Pennocks, or any of that crowd, for she wouldn't have them know for the world that we had a relative right here in town that had to take in sewing. I told her they weren't her relations nor the Blaisdells; they were mine, and they were just as good as her folks any day, and that it was no disgrace to be poor. But, dear me, you know Hattie. What could I do? Besides, she got mad then, and took back the dozen napkins she'd given me. So I didn't have anything for poor Nellie. Wasn't it a shame?"

"I think it was," said Miss Maggie's lips shut in a thin straight line.

"Well, what could I do?" bridled Jane defiantly. "Besides, if I'd taken them to her, they wouldn't have appreciated it. I know. They never appreciate anything. Why, last November, when the money came, I sent them nearly all of Mellicent's and my old summer things—and if little Totie didn't go and say afterwards that her mamma did wish Cousin Jane wouldn't send muslins in December when they hadn't room to me, but she must have said it somewhere, else Totie wouldn't have got hold of it. 'Children are fools,' you know," she finished meekly, as she rose to go.

Mr. Smith noticed that Miss Maggie seemed troubled that evening, and he knew that she started off early the next morning and was gone nearly all day, coming home only for a hurried luncheon. It being Saturday, the Martin girls were both there to cure Mr. Smith's cold. Not until some days later did Mr. Smith suspect that he had learned the reason for all this. Then a thin-faced young girl with fiery eyes came to tea one evening and was introduced to him as Miss Carrie Davis. Later, when Miss Maggie came upstairs to put Father Duff to bed, Mr. Smith heard Carrie Davis telling Annabelle Martin all about how kind Miss Maggie had been to Nellie, finding her all that embroidery to do for that rich Mrs. Gaylord, and how wonderful it was that she had been able to get such a splendid job for Sam right in Hooper's store where she was.

Mr. Smith thought he understood then Miss Maggie's long absence on Saturday.

Mr. Smith was often running across little kindnesses that Miss Maggie had done. He began to think that Miss Maggie must be a very charitable person—and he ran across several cases that she had not helped. Then he did not know exactly what to think.

His first experience of this kind was when he met an unmistakably "down-and-out" man one day, begging clothing, food, anything, telling a sorry tale of his unjust displacement from a local factory. Mr. Smith gave the man a dollar, and sent him to Miss Maggie. He happened to know that Father Duff had discarded them to old suit that morning—and Father Duff and the beggar might have been taken for twins as to size. On the way home little Nellie said the beggar returning, just as forlorn, and even more hungry looking.

"Well, my good fellow, couldn't she fix up my coat?" asked Mr. Smith in some surprise.

"Fix me up?" glowered the "nan" disdainfully. "Not much she did! She didn't fix me up ter nothing—but chin muscle!"

And Mr. Smith had thought Miss Maggie was so charitable!

A few days later he heard an eager young woman begging Miss Maggie for a contribution to the Pension Fund Fair in behalf of the underpaid shop-girls on Daly's. Daly's was a little department store, notorious for its unfair treatment of its employees.

Miss Maggie seemed interested, and asked many questions. The eager young woman became even more eager-eyed, and told Miss Maggie all about the long hours, and the wearing labor, the low wages—wages upon which it was impossible for any girl to live decently—and how the meanness sent many a girl to her ruin.

Miss Maggie listened attentively, and said, "Yes, yes, I see," several times. But in the end the eager young woman went away empty-handed and sad-eyed. And Mr. Smith frowned again.

He had thought Miss Maggie was so kind-hearted! She gave to all—fairly—may not to this one? As soon as possible Mr. Smith hunted up the eager-eyed young woman and gave her the dollars. He would have given her more, but he had learned from unpleasant experience that large gifts from ungrateful Mrs. John Smith brought comments and curiosity not always agreeable.

It was not until many weeks later that Mr. Smith closed to hear of the complete change of policy of Daly's department store. Hours were shortened, labor lightened, and wages raised. Incidentally he learned that it had all started from a crusade of women's clubs and church committees who had "got after old Daly," and threatened all sorts of publicity and unpleasantness if the wrongs were not righted at once. He learned also that the leader in the forefront of this movement had been—Maggie Duff.

As it chanced, it was on that same day that a strange man accosted him on the street.

"Say, she was all right, she was, old man. I been hopin' I'd see ye some day ter tell ye."

"To tell me?" echoed Mr. Smith stupidly.

The man grinned.

"Ye don't know me, do ye? Well, I do look different, I'll own. Ye give me a dollar once, an' sent me to a lady down the street there. Now do ye remember?"

"Oh! Oh! Are you that nan?"

"Sure I am! I was, she was all right. Member? I thought 't was only chin-muscle she was givin' me. But let me tell ye. She hunted up the wife an' kids, an' what's more, she went an' faced my boss, an' she got me my job back, too. What do ye think of that, now?"

"Why, I'm—in a glad, of course!"

Mr. Smith spoke as one in deep thought.

And all the way home Mr. Smith walked—as one in deep thought.

Shot Large Cottontail Near Creston.

What is probably the biggest specimen of the cottontail deer ever taken in the Kootenay country was shot recently by Dick Peterson on his ranch about seven miles from Creston. Dressed for shipment the carcass weighed 384 pounds, and when hung by the hind legs showed a length of ten feet from rump to tip of nose.

"YOUR TEETH"

PREPAREDNESS

By R. H. PROCTOR, M.D., of "Oral Hygiene."

Only a fool would want another war. The greatest tragedy of war is that war kills the wrong people.

When the day does come, though, we must have the vigor and energy to do our part. No less must we have the energy and vigor to do our part in times of peace. Peace is a war of commercial competition for the markets of the world.

If we are to do our part, every citizen must be able to do his share of the work, no matter what that share may be. We must have nourishment. How can anyone be properly nourished on soup?

Whenever you lose your power to masticate you become a "soupier." The earlier you lose the power to masticate your food, the sooner your physical and mental development will stop. With all of our high ideals, all of our advancement, all of our science we still face the stern necessity of eating three meals each day.

All of the millions of people in this world must think first of their food supply. We are anchored to the kitchen.

Why not get the fullest benefit of our food? Take care of your children's teeth and of your own teeth so that the vitamins that hold the secret power of nourishment may be extracted from the food and do their full duty.

In the last analysis, a war is just a fight between two sets of people; one set wishes to take the others food away from them.

Then we neglect our teeth we bring down on our own heads the enemy that a victorious enemy would inflict, we deprive ourselves of the full benefit of our food.

Save the Song Birds

Forty-five persons, mostly foreigners, were convicted in this state during the first nineteen days of October of killing song-birds—indeed, eating birds. They were fined $1,400. Every one of the marauders who goes abroad knows that it is against the law to kill game birds, and they know that game birds are protected except on certain seasons. In the case of fruit, grain and vegetables these prosecutions should be sharp and severe.—Utica Observer.

Headaches Gone

Perhaps you can imagine what this means to one who has suffered terribly with headaches for ten years.

Read about it in this letter.

Mrs. Tena A. Smith, Country Harbor Cross Roads, N. S., writes:

"I feel that if anyone can recommend Dr. Chase's medicines I certainly can. I suffered for years from severe headaches, and although I took all kinds of headache powders which just relieved me at the time, I became very nervous and nervous, and every thing seemed to trouble me. I have taken eighteen boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and it has made an entirely new person of me. I felt that I could not have lived without it. I do not have one headache now for every hundred I used to have, and my nerves are good and strong. I began weighing 109 pounds when I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and now I weigh 121. Knowledge of this treatment has done for me. I cannot too highly recommend it to others."

Letter to Editor

Chinook,
November 29, 1921

Editor, Chinook Advance.

I read with much interest Mr. Bird's letter on religion versus the materialist conception of history, which is practically what his letter amounts to.

In the limited space afforded through these columns full justice could never be done to such an important subject. Never the less I feel that Mr. Bird's affirmations cannot go unchallenged.

I am willing to debate the entire subject with him should he consent at the earliest possible opportunity.

Yours truly,

J. P. Watson

To introduce the Candidate of the National Liberal & Conservative Party

Major Wm. McIntosh

Major McIntosh was born in England forty years ago. On leaving school he served two years in the South African war and was later a member of the SOMALILAND EXPEDITION from 1902 to 1904.

He came to Canada over fifteen years ago and has spent most of that time in this constituency, being first employed by the C.P.R. and later taking up land south of IRVINE on main line of C.P. Ry.

In August 1914 Major McIntosh signed on with the Royal Canadian Navy being sent as wireless operator on North Atlantic Patrol. Transferring later to the land forces he reached France in September 1915 with the 3rd C.M.R. After serving in France throughout the war he was, after the Armistice, sent to Siberia in command of Sixth Signal Company Canadian Engineers.

On demobilisation Major McIntosh returned to his farm and again identified himself with the activities of his district, including the U.F.A., of which he is an enthusiastic member; although opposed to the present phase of the political activities of that organization.

Maj. McIntosh is a young man, energetic, well-trained and of broad and sympathetic vision.

He is well-fitted to represent the best interests of all classes of the community. He is able to represent Labor, especially Union Labor as he was for some years a union man; and has always been a keen student of social and labor problems.

He is specially able to represent the Returned man, understanding well the point of view of the Veteran.

He is well able to represent the farmer being himself a working farmer and a firm believer in co-operative activities.

The Executive Committee of the Liberal-Conservative Association present Major McIntosh as the Government candidate with every confidence in his ability and integrity and would ask for him the support and interest of all electors desirous of electing a good man pledged to a good cause.

—A United and Prosperous Canada.

Cooley Bros., - Chinook

To the Electors of Chinook and District.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Having being nominated as the Government candidate in the Medicine Hat constituency I am taking this means of asking for your vote and interest.

The issues now before the electorate are vital and deserve the careful consideration of all electors.

We are, in brief, asked to decide whether we will continue to develop this country under the system which brought us unquestioned prosperity up to the beginning of the war or whether we will risk experiments in both the tariff policy and the form of government of this country.

The form of government in Canada is a growth from the British constitutional system which has been tested by centuries and it is inconceivable that the country, as a whole, will return to power a party pledged to change it and to substitute economic group government.

The tariff policy of this country has protected our young country from outside competition against which we would be powerless. It is equally inconceivable that the country will risk a reversal of this policy.

May I ask you to take a national view of these questions and to vote as Canadian citizens and not as members of an occupational group, in short, to vote principles and not prejudices.

Yours Sincerely,

William McIntosh
